

Exemplary journalism

Colón, Aly (edited). Best Newspaper Writing. 2006-2007 edition:

Fields, Robin et al. "When a Family Matter Turns Into a Business." Los Angeles Times. Nov. 13, 2005.

Leibovich, Mark. "Pressure Cooker." The Washington Post. Jan. 5, 2005.

Simerman, John. "Watching Williams Die." Contra Costa (Calif.) Times. Dec. 13, 2005.

Bernstein, Maxine and Brent Walth. "Flawed Disability Fund Is a Costly Crutch for the City." The Oregonian. July 3, 2005.

Clark, Roy Peter and Christopher Scanlan. America's Best Newspaper Writing:

Bor, Jonathan. "It fluttered and became Bruce Murray's heart." The Post-Standard. May 12, 1984.

Von Drehle, David. "Men of steel are melting with age." The Washington Post. April 28, 1994.

Wills, Kendall J. (edited). The Pulitzer Prizes. Volume One 1987:

Schneider, Andrew and Matthew Brelis. "Flying High--Pilots on Drugs." The Pittsburgh Press.

Bissinger, H.G. and Daniel R. Biddle. "Disorder in the Court." The Philadelphia Inquirer.

"The Goodyear War." Akron Beacon Journal.

Garlock, David. Pulitzer Prize Feature Stories. Second Edition:

James, Sheryl. "A Gift Abandoned." The St. Petersburg Times. 1991.

French, Thomas. "Angels & Demons." The St. Petersburg Times. 1998.

Moehring, J.R. "Crossing Over." Los Angeles Times. 2000.

Hallman Jr., Tom. "The Boy Behind the Mask." The Oregonian. 2001.

Pollak, Lisa. "The Umpire's Sons." The Baltimore Sun. 1997.

Curtin, David. "Adam & Megan." Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph. 1990.

Steinbach, Alice. "A Boy of Unusual Vision." The Baltimore Sun. 1985.